City takes on Blue Whale Challenge

Education Department to launch awareness programmes from tomorrow to save children from being victims

Mysuru, Sept. 10 (RK&BCT)- The heritage city of Mysuru is taking the 'Blue Whale Challenge' head-on with the Education Department leading a series of awareness campaigns to educate parents, teachers and the managements of student hostels regarding the deadly online game and to prevent students from being its victims.

[Courtesy: Internet]

The awareness campaigns will be conducted from tomorrow (Sept. 11) at city, hobli and taluk levels and the respective Block Education Officers (BEOs) will lead the initiative of counselling parents and teachers regarding the game.

The Education Department's move comes after reports of Mysuru featuring prominently in the cities of the country where the term 'Blue Whale' has been searched widely on the internet. According to Google search data statistics, Mysuru figured in ninth place among Indian cities where the term 'Blue Whale' was searched.

Following the reports, the Karnataka Government, through the Education Department issued directives to school managements to tackle the Blue Whale Challenge game that drives players to suicide. In a circular, the Department has asked the teachers to look out for unusual symbols or injuries on the arms and lips of students.

Though no Blue Whale-related tragedy has been reported in Karnataka, the Education Department has decided to take no chances as suicides triggered by the game are rising across the world. The circular has been issued by State Public Instructions Commissioner A. Sowjanya.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Deputy Director of Public Instructions B.K.S. Vardhan said that from tomorrow, Department officials will conduct awareness campaigns and all the heads of primary and secondary schools will be sensitised on the deadly game and how to prevent students from falling victims.

5-year-old girl raped by peon in Delhi School

The rape accused Vikas (centre) being arrested in New Delhi.

New Delhi, Sept. 10- A five-year-old girl was allegedly raped by a peon inside the premises of a private school in Shahdara here, the Police said. The accused, identified as Vikas (40), has been arrested, said Nupur Prasad, Deputy Commissioner of Police, Shahdara.

The incident came a day after a seven-year-old boy had his throat slit for allegedly resisting a sexual assault by a bus conductor of a Gurugram school — an incident which sent shock waves across the country.

Vikas had been working in the school for the last three years. Previously he worked as a security guard there, the Police said. He took the girl inside an empty classroom around noon yesterday when he was walking on the corridors after handing over lunch boxes to teachers, the Police said. After raping the girl, he threatened her with dire consequences, they added. The girl later complained of bleeding and pain in her private parts to her mother. She was taken to a hospital where her medical examination confirmed sexual assault, the Police said. Traumatised by the incident, the 5-year-old was sent for counselling. According to the Police, the child said during counselling that she was assaulted by "a man wearing a cap" and also described his physical attributes. It was on the basis of this description that Vikas was nabbed.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

During the British era English was, quite understandably, a stumbling block for many of the Indian staff in Munnar's tea plantations. Yet, given its indispensability, they manfully used it to communicate with their British bosses, sometimes mauling it unavoidably in the process. One Brit was foxed by a written request from a staff for "a pistol and motor" for his quarters. It turned out that what he actually required was a grinding stone. So the Brit informed him he would be provided with a "pestle and mortar," adding facetiously that "a pistol could be dangerous to handle!"

Often the nuances of English proved elusive. A worker once applied for leave to conduct his daughter's marriage. Forwarding the application to the Manager, a field staff dutifully endorsed it with "Leave recommended as Marimuthu wants to marry his daughter."

Defecating in the open was discouraged. Yet, with the tea bushes offering ideal cover, it persisted. "Why are the workers fertilising the fields?"a disgusted Manager, who had gingerly inspected an extensively 'mined' field, once exclaimed. Pat came the naive reply, "Sir, we put out fertilisers only as per your instructions!" — George N. Netto in The New Indian Express.

Most insane graphite drawings

Cape Town: Jono Dry is only 28-years-old and has never taken art classes, but his incredible talent allows him to create these photographic quality drawings using only graphite pencils. The young South African artist is considered one of the few people in the world able to take drawing pat the limits of what is considered achievable with simple graphite pencils.

Jono spends most of his time working on his large-scale drawings, and usually takes about 2-3 months to complete a piece, but he once spent a whopping 5 months for his most complicated artworks. He only produces between 4 and 8 large-scale drawings per year, Jono Dry's hand-drawn masterpieces are considered very exclusive among collectors. The talented artist draws inspiration from everything around him, and specializes in hyper-realism and surrealism, sometimes combining the two into artworks that mimic his ability to push the limits of what is real and possible.

Portraits on customers' heads!

Ankara: Mario Hvala, a barber from Novi Sad, Serbia, recently made international headlines for trimming a detailed portrait of North Korean leader Kim Jong Un on the back of a client's head in his recent achievements. He has been creating "hair tattoos" for the last eight years, and there's nothing he can't trim on the scalps of his customers.

33-year-old Mario claims he started doing hair tattoos eight years ago, while working in Slovenia. Hvala kept honing his skills, and upon his return to Serbia, four years ago, he quickly made a name for himself at the House Damian hair salon, in Novi Sad, carving all kinds of design and celebrity portraits on customers' heads. Mario had created a variety of intricate hair tattoos, like portraits of legendary inventor Nikola Tesla, tennis ace Novak Djokovic etc., But it was his latest work, a detailed hair portrait of a smiling Kim Jong Un that finally got him worldwide attention. His definition will loose after 8 to 10 days. But that doesn't stop people from paying 120 euros for a detailed portrait.

VOICE OF THE READER

Remembering Dr. B.R. Ambedkar in these troubled times

Sir,

India, "the greatest living democracy in the world" with a 'flawed democracy' is replete with quotes from eminent personalities who shaped our country's freedom and paved way for its future social, cultural and economic development.

The golden quote by Dr. B.R. Ambedkar on the occasion of his address to the nation on the first ever Indian Republic Day on 26th January 1950, extracted from K.B. Ganapathy's ever-popular column Abracadabra (SOM dated Mar. 5, 2013) appears to be relevant today and worth pondering over by Indian voting fraternity keeping in mind the next Assembly and Parliamentary elections in India:

"If hereafter things go wrong, we will have nobody to blame except ourselves. Not to lay their liberties at the feet of even a great man or to trust him with powers which enable him to subvert their institution. Bhakti in religion may be a road to salvation of the soul. But, in politics, bhakti or hero-worship is a sure road to degradation and to eventual dictatorship."

On 2nd September 1953, Dr. Ambedkar, in his address to the Rajya Sabha, said "I shall be the first person to burn it out."

— The Constitution.

"It is by placating the sentiments of smaller communities and smaller people who are afraid that the majority may do wrong, that the British Parliament works. Sir, my friends tell me that I have made the Constitution. But I am quite prepared to say that I shall be the first person to burn it out. I do not want it. It does not suit anybody. But whatever that may be, if our people want to carry on, they must not forget that there are majorities and there are minorities and they simply cannot ignore the minorities by saying, "Oh, no. To recognise you is to harm democracy."

I should say that the greatest harm will come by injuring the minorities.

After two years, Rajya Sabha Member Dr. Anup Singh from Punjab, on 19th March 1955, during the debate on Fourth Amendment Bill to the Constitution, raised the issue of Dr.Ambedkar's earlier statement saying, "Last time when you spoke, you said that you would burn the Constitution."

Dr. Ambedkar replied — "Do you want a reply to that? I would give it to you right here. My friend says that the last time when I spoke, I said that I wanted to burn the Constitution. Well, in a hurry I did not explain the reason. Now that my friend has given me the opportunity, I think I shall give the reason. The reason is this: We built a temple for God to come in and reside, but before the God could be installed, if the Devil had taken possession of it, what else could we do except destroy the temple? We did not intend that it should be occupied by the Asuras. We intended it to be occupied by the Devas. That is the reason why I said I would rather like to burn it."

Some of these historical nuggets of the creator of the Constitution of India, Dr. Ambedkar, appear to be highly relevant even today. So what? Leave it to the knowledgeable voters?

Home Minister tells Policemen to free Bengaluru from rowdies, extortionists

Bengaluru, Sept.10- Home Minster R. Ramalinga Reddy yesterday directed the Police to strengthen local intelligence to keep a check on anti-social activities in their respective jurisdictions. Addressing the City Police for the first time after assuming charge as Home Minister, Reddy asked them to identify troublemakers, rowdy elements and extortionists.

Pointing out that he used to get many complaints from hawkers and roadside vendors about anti-social elements extorting 'hafta,' from them in and around city market, Reddy said he had brought it to the notice of the Police. Although the menace was contained for some time, it is back and continues unabated, he said.

Making it very clear that the buck stops with the Police, the Home Minster said that complete co-operation would be given to those personnel who work honestly.

Bengaluru Police Commissioner T. Suneel Kumar and other Police officers were present.

Although there was severe opposition to the interference of Kempaiah in Police functioning, Reddy's predecessors K.J. George and Dr. Parameshwara did not make any efforts to keep Kempaiah out of key Police meetings.

But now, Ramalinga Reddy soon after becoming the third Home Minister in the Siddharamaiah Government, has begun to assert his authority over the Police Department, by keeping Kempaiah out of Saturday's meeting, according to sources.

IKEBANA

The Art of "Living Flowers"

By Girija Madhavan

In Mysuru, the Horticultural Department recently organised an "Ikebana" workshop. This traditional Japanese art was enthusiastically received.

Ikebana [meaning "Living Flowers"] began as votive offerings in Japanese Buddhist temples some six centuries ago. Later it was recognised as an art-form, which retained Zen symbolism. Abbot Senkei, also called Semmu, who lived by a Lake, started the style of Ikebana called Ikenobo ["Flower Arrangement of the Hermitage by the Lake"].

There are three main types of Ikebana:

1. The Nageire School of natural-looking, free-standing arrangements which are a simplified version of the older, oversized and formal Rikka style used in temples.

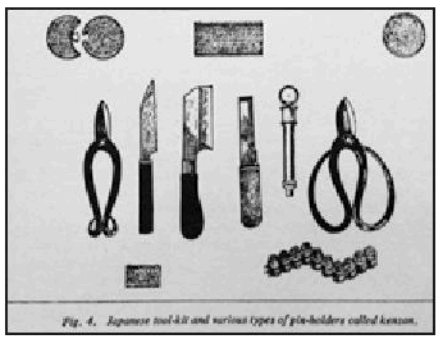
2. The Ohara-Ryu School created by "Flower Master" Unshin Ohara which features the "Moribana" arrangements of massed flowers.

3. The Sogetsu School of Grand Master Sofu Teshigahara set up in 1926. This style conforms to the classic rules of Ikebana but allows for creativity and thematic design. There are also free style arrangements using unconventional materials and abstract forms called Ze-nei-bana or Avant Garde.

The heart of the traditional Japanese home is the "Tokonoma," a little alcove with a raised platform. The back wall usually displays a painted scroll of flowers, landscape or calligraphy. Under it stands an Ikebana arrangement in a prized container as a single composition. Ikebana is no longer confined to the Tokonoma or the Tea House, where it was part of the setting for the Tea Ceremony. It is used now as an art form in everyday settings.

Arrangement by the Ichiyo School of Ikebana.

Arrangement by the Ko-ryu School.



Tools used for Ikebana.

The Tokonoma.

Ikebana is meditative, aiming at inner calm and harmony through contemplation of line, form, space and knowledge of plant forms. Basically the compositions have three main lines. The tallest branch or sculptural line represents "Sky" or "Heaven". The second, two-thirds the size of the first, stands for "Man". The shortest, at the base, is "Earth." An uneven number of flowers complete the composition. To ensure that flowers stay fresh, stems are cut on a horizontal slant under water; some are treated with vinegar or hot water, some are seared with a candle flame. Thorny plants are not used.

A pair of secateurs [or sharp scissors], a knife and, most important, pin holders called "Kenzan" made in many sizes, are the basic tools. The classic Kenzan has a half-moon cut away, wherein a smaller pin-holder fits. Appropriate vases are chosen; shallow ones for the Moribana or tall vases for the Nageire. Artists can innovate with original or imaginative containers found locally. The Nageire style reminds me of a stage-set in the Imperial Palace in Tokyo for a dance recital by Guru Keluchaaran Mohapatra to inaugurate the Festival of India in 1988. In the corner was a large pottery urn with a tall Nageire arrangement of pine branches [representing eternal life], chrysanthemums [the insignia of the Emperors as well as a symbol of nobility] and plumes of grasses [adjustability or obedience to order]. No pin holder was used, crossed bamboo slats being inserted into the narrow neck of the vase to balance the precarious floral arrangement. Guru Kelucharan decided to use this as a prop for his portrayal of a shy deer sheltering in the woods. As he hid close behind it, his hands miming the movements of the animal, the Masters who had created the floral piece became palpably nervous. Great was their relief when the deer at last pranced into the open stage.

The Japanese observe the cycles of nature [which we call Ritu]. The "Flowers of the Four Seasons" are celebrated in paintings and designs on lacquer-ware and textiles. Specific blooms are associated with months. The cherry blossom or "Sakura" represents spring. Seasonal flowers get due recognition in floral compositions.

Cities like Delhi, Mumbai or Chennai have flourishing Ikebana "Chapters". Mysureans found a short Ikebana workshop giving them many creative ideas and they may well evolve a fusion of Indo-Japanese styles for decoration and art.

Mysuru Zoo gets reptiles from Tamil Nadu

Four Rock Pythons, five Gharials received for breeding from Madras Crocodile Bank Trust

Mysuru, Sept. 10 (KS) - Sri Chamarajendra Zoological Gardens, popularly known as the Mysuru Zoo and one of the oldest zoos of the country received two reptile species for breeding from Tamil Nadu on Sept. 6.

Four Rock Pythons (Two males and two females) and five Gharials (Two males and three females) were received from Madras Crocodile Bank Trust in Mamallapuram in Tamil Nadu as per the approval accorded by the Central Zoo Authority of India, New Delhi, under Animal Exchange Programme in the form gift for the purpose of conservation of breeding. The health conditions of the animals are stable, according to a press release from Zoo Executive Director C. Ravishankar.

One of the four Indian Rock Pythons (left) and five Gharials received by Mysuru Zoo from Madras Crocodile Bank Trust.

Indian Rock Python: Indian Rock Python (Python Molurus) is a large non-venomous Python species found in many tropic and sub-tropic areas of the Indian Sub-continent and Southeast Asia. It is also known as Indian Python, Black-Tailed Python and Indian Rock Python.

They are found in Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Chattisgarh, Delhi, Goa, Gujarat, Haryana, Jammu & Kashmir, Jharkhand, Karnataka, Kerala, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Odisha, Puducherry, Punjab, Tamil Nadu, Telangana, Uttar Pradesh, Uttrakhand and West Bengal.

This reptile can be easily identified by checking its large size, dark irregular patches, pinkish head and slow locomotion.

On provocation, it coils itself and keeps head slightly above the ground; hiss almost the same like Russell's Viper and bites repeatedly if one comes in its attacking range. On catching its prey, the Python tightly coils around the limbs and suffocate the prey before swallowing it whole.

Though Indian Rock Python is non-venomous, it gives injurious bite with numerous small but sharp teeth which can cause skin rupture on the site of bite.

Indian Rock Python is one of the most threatened species due to- Road kill mortality; killing due to conflict in agricultural fields and around water bodies due to its large size; due to misidentification and confusion with venomous species Russell's Viper which share almost the same kind of habitat.

This reptile is killed for its beautiful and tough skin and its trade is high in various parts of country which is illegal. Habitat loss is one more reason because this species prefers wet surrounding or long time stable water bodies for its activities. Due to destruction of water bodies, habitat of Python remains no more natural and it has to migrate from the area. Like all Pythons, Indian Rock Python is always in demand by foreign and Indian keepers for pet trade.

Gharial (Gavialis Gangeticus): The gharial (Gavialis Gangeticus), also known as the Gavial, is a crocodilian of the Gavialidae family. This fish-eating crocodile is a native of the northern part of the Indian Sub-continent.

Gharial is one of the three species of crocodilians found only in the Indian sub-continent and is also known as Long-nosed Crocodile and is the longest living species of crocodilians in the world.

Gharial was found in India, Pakistan, Nepal, Bangladesh, Bhutan and Myanmar but are now extinct in most of these countries. The remaining Gharial populations are restricted to India and Nepal.

Gharials used to grow up to 7 mts (23 ft), in the past history of India. Due to hunting for skins, medicine and habitat loss, Gharials now fall in the category of one of the most Critically Endangered Species of reptiles in the world.

Today, small populations of Gharials are present in Son River, Girwa River, the Ganges, Mahanadi River and the Chambal River. National Chambal Sanctuary is the only place in India where a large wild population of Gharial is found.

The department has also given directions to school authorities to block this game at school computers. The DDPI said those who play this game, behave unusually and they prefer to be alone. "School authorities should observe these things among children and if they find any student playing this game, teachers should give counselling to them. We request parents not to send their children to browsing centres to play this game," he said.

"It is important to create awareness about the dangers associated with the game and prevent students from falling victims to it. At greater risk are minors who keep getting messages ordering them to complete the tasks assigned," Vardhan added. For the awareness campaign, the department will involve volunteers and officials from Child Helpline, Children Committees and NGOs.

The other directives in the circular are: Watch out for kids who view horror movies continuously, those who wake up at 4.20 am, those who listen to disturbing and bizarre music and those who post depressing messages and selfies on social media.

The Blue Whale Challenge, which reportedly originated in Russia, challenges youngsters to engage in a series of harmful behaviour over 50 days. Some of the dares include harming oneself by cutting the skin, isolating oneself, visiting graveyards at night, viewing horror movies, listening to disturbing music and, finally, committing suicide.

Walkathon for young elders in city

Mysuru, Sept. 10 (RKB&DM) - As part of National Sports Week, Big Bazaar had organised a walkathon for young elders at its outlet in Gokulam Mall at Jayalakshmipuram here this morning.

The walkathon was held simultaneously in four cities across the State including Mysuru and Bengaluru.

The event was held to spread the message of healthy living among young elders, besides highlighting the importance of exercise and active lifestyle.

About 150 elderly persons aged above 58 years took part in the walkathon, which was flagged off by Store Manager H.L. Mamatha.

The walkathon passed through Hunsur Road, St. Joseph's School, BSNL Office and Jayalakshmipuram 7th Main before culminating at the starting point covering a distance of one kilometer.

The walkathon was supported by Elder Citizens Club, Yoga Association and Park Walkers Association. 60-year-old Usha Raj of Gokulam, was declared the winner followed by 66-year-old Arjun Kinekar of Vijayanagar in the second place.

Vehicles with fake numbers on the rise

Innocents cough up fine to cops for no fault of theirs

Mysuru, Sept. 10 (US)- The number of vehicles with fake registration number plates are said to be on the rise in city resulting in genuine vehicle owners bearing the brunt of the Police and even cough up fine. Here is a classic example to prove the point.

Nadeem Ahmed Khan of Rajivnagar here while riding on his Honda Activa Scooter (KA-09 HG-7766) on Aug.19 near Ayurveda College Circle was reportedly stopped by Traffic Police and asked to pay a fine of Rs. 100 as he was found riding the vehicle on Aug.16 without a helmet on Dewan's Road based on a CCTV footage. Nadeem averred that he never rode the scooter without a helmet. His pleas went in vain and Nadeem paid the fine to the Police.

However, the disturbed Nadeem insisted Devaraja Traffic Police to show the CCTV footage. On repeated requests, the Police yielded and showed the CCTV footage.

A shock was in store for Nadeem as the scooter in the CCTV footage was a Yamaha Fascino and not Honda Activa, but bearing the same registration number!

He has appealed Police to seize the fake numbered scooter and save him from further botheration and ordeals.

In another case, Nazeer Ahmed, a few months ago, had to cough up a fine of Rs. 900 to Cops for no fault of his. His Honda Dio scooter (KA-05 S-8143) had been duplicated in registration number for another scooter of the same brand. He too had appealed the Police.

Residents of city have expressed an apprehension that Police and RTO should act seriously on the matter as if the innocent is caught in a crime, the effect would be devastating.

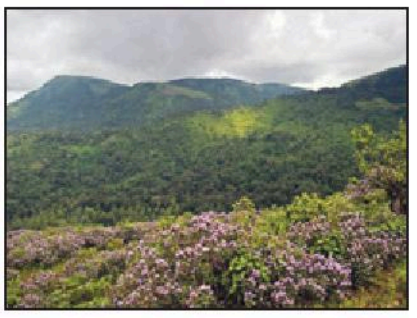
Dasara Darshini tours to tourist spots from Sept. 21 to Oct. 5

KSRTC one-day tours: Jaladarshini, Giridarshini, Devadarshini packages

Dubare Forest

Golden Temple in Bylakuppe

Abby Falls



B.R. Hills

Mysuru, Sept. 10 (MTY&NNN)- The tourist places in and around the city including Palaces, Hills, Temples and Waterfalls is likely to see a spurt in visitors during the ensuing Dasara.

The Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) is gearing up to extend the darshan of these places from a mere four days last year to 14 days this year to the visitors by giving them the facilities at concessional rates.

In the last couple of years, the KSRTC used to arrange the visits to places of tourist interests in the city and in the neighbouring districts during Dasara. It would organise the one-day 'Darshini' tour to all these places. This year too, the Darshini Durbar will continue. This is the first time excluding the Jumboo Savari day, the Darshini has been arranged for 14 days.

Realising that October 1 is a Sunday, Oct. 2 is Gandhi Jayanti and Oct. 5 Valmiki Jayanti, and it could be an extended holiday period, the KSRTC, expecting a huge Dasara rush, has decided to continue the Dasara Darshini tour till Oct. 5.

Chamundi Hill

Talakad

Normally during Dasara season in order to introduce the tourists to waterfalls, 'Jaladarshini,' for the places of worship, 'Devadarshini' and to see the hills, 'Giridarshini' packages had been introduced. The KSRTC's plan of Darshini visits started gaining popularity year after year. Hence, this year too more tourists are likely to be attracted at this innovative idea of KSRTC.

Jaladarshini: In the Jaladarshini package, the tourists can visit Cauvery Nisarga Dhama in Dubare Forest at Kushalnagar (Golden Temple in Bylakuppe included in this package), Abby Falls, Harangi, KRS dam and return the same night to Mysuru. The 350-km package will cost Rs. 375 per adult and Rs. 190 per child.

Giridarshini: In the Giridarshini plan, Gopalaswamy Betta (Hill) in Gundlupet taluk in Chamarajanagar District, Biligiriranganabetta, Nanjangud and Chamundi Hill will be covered. The rate of ticket per adult is Rs. 350 and for a child Rs. 175 to cover a distance of 325 kms.

Devadarshini: The temple tour package includes visit to Nanjangud's Nanjundeshwara temple, Talakad, Bluff, Mudukutore, Srirangapatna, KRS and return to Mysuru. The total distance covered will be 250 kms and the rate per adult is Rs. 275 and for a child Rs. 140.

"Just like last year, this year too the one-day package consisting of Jaladarshini, Giridarshini and Devadarshini will be introduced at concessional fares. Depending on the demand from the tourists, number of buses will be increased."

— M.Vasu, KSRTC Divisional Controller (Rural)

The buses will leave every day at 6.30 in the morning from the Rural Bus Stand and the City Bus Stand and return by 9.30 in the night. The tickets will be available online or also at the counters to be opened at the bus stands.

More than 1000 tourists: Last year this special package was introduced and 11 trips each were done in Jaladarshini and Giridarshini packages and six trips in Devadarshini package. Nearly 1000 visitors had made use of these Darshini tours.

There was good response to these tours in a very short period. This year the tours will begin from the beginning of Navarathri festival and end five days after the Jumboo Savari, hence benefiting more number of tourists.

Cauvery Nisargadhama

This Dasara you can enjoy helicopter ride from Sept. 15 to Oct. 2

Mysuru, Sept. 10 (MTY&BCT)- This year too, tourists and residents can hop into choppers to get a bird's eye view of all the iconic places in Mysuru including the famous Mysore Palace and the Chamundi Hill. The helicopter rides will begin from Sept. 15 to Oct. 2 and it will cost Rs. 2,300 per person.

Last Dasara, the district administration introduced a programme called 'Agasadhinda Mysuru' which gave tourists and residents an opportunity to tour Mysuru in a helicopter. The ride started from the Lalitha Mahal Helipad and covered the whole city in 10 to 15 minutes. Six people (excluding the pilot) could sit at a time in the chopper.

During this ten-minute aerial tour, one can view most of the tourist spots including the Mysore Palace, bus stands, Chamundi Hill, Lalitha Mahal Palace Hotel, Kukkarahalli Lake, Crawford Hall, Railway Station, Jaganmohan Palace, Karanji Lake, Exhibition Grounds, Manasagangothri campus and other prominent tourists spots across city.

This year, the authorities have plans to introduce two helicopters and have approached two private aviation companies. Private operators will take the total responsibility of rides and the District Administration will make all the necessary arrangements.

Sources from the District Administration said that the chopper ride is being offered at a reduced fare during Dasara to promote tourism. The rides are being organised similar to those offered during Hampi Utsav.

This Dasara, flights will begin from 10 am and companies including Pavan Hans and Chipsan Aviation have come forward to operate choppers and people on board can view the city from a height of over 20,000 ft. Fliers can purchase tickets for the chopper rides from the Lalitha Mahal Helipad.

There will be special stress on safety and only expert pilots have been roped in to fly helicopters. The flying machines will be checked after each flight and an exclusive technical team will monitor the operations, sources said.

It may be mentioned that aerial joyrides involving Cessna flights were introduced for the first time in 2012, and they were a great hit with Mysureans. The flights then were operated from Mysore Airport at Mandakalli.

Karnataka's first Grand Master feted

Karnataka's first Grand Master and India's 50th Grand Master M.S. Talented Cricketer: Goutham Sagar

Cricket is a very popular game in our country and many youngsters have taken up cricket as their career. Kautilya Vidyalaya selected to set up Atal Tinkering Laboratory

Lab to be inaugurated on Sept. 12; school to organise science festival to boost scientific spirit

A group of children from Kautilya Vidyalaya are seen examining a model that depicts renewable energy set up as part of the science exhibition to be held on Sept. 12.

Mysuru, Sept. 10 - NITI Aayog has come up with three new initiatives to encourage and foster innovation. It has launched an initiative aimed at establishing 500 Atal Tinkering Laboratories (ATL) in schools across India and 100 Atal Incubation Centres (AICs) in both academic and non-academic space.

The main objective of setting up of these laboratories is to create scientific temper and cultivate the spirit of curiosity and innovation among young minds. ATL is a workspace where young minds can give shape to their ideas through hands-on do-it-yourself mode and learn innovation skills.

In the first phase, about 267 schools in India have been selected for the establishment of the ATL and Kautilya Vidyalaya is the only school in Mysuru to be selected for this.

The inauguration ceremony of Atal Tinkering Laboratory will be held on Sept. 12 at Kautilya Vidyalaya at 10.30 am. Padma Bhushan B.N. Suresh, Former Director, Vikram Sarabhai Space Centre and President, Indian National Academy of Engineering will inaugurate the lab. Deputy Commissioner D. Randeep will be the Chief Guest. The event will be presided over by R. Raghu, Chairman of Kautilya Vidyalaya.

SCIENCE FEST

The school will organise a science festival to coincide with the inauguration of the Laboratory in a bid to realise the goal of developing scientific attitude among students and to take learning experience beyond text books and syllabus.

The exhibition will feature plasticised organs of human body, listing its vital functions where Prof. Shyam Sundar, Professor of Anatomy, Mysore Medical College and Research Institute, will exhibit and explain the organs. Exclusive sections on Ayurveda, industrial revolution, innovations in terms of technology, revolutionary changes in modern life brought in by telecommunication, television, computers, mobiles, smart phones, robots etc., will be set up.

JOURNEY TOWARDS ESTABLISHING ATL

According to Dr. L. Savitha, Principal of Kautilya Vidyalaya, the idea of establishing Atal Tinkering Laboratory at the school was conceptualised when the initiative of the NDA government was published and the process of applying for the same as per guidelines was started.

The application duly completed in all respects with the amenities available at the institution and the reason why we should be considered for allotment of the lab was submitted during September last year.

"We were invited for a seminar to present innovative ideas in a competition. A team of students was sent to Hyderabad and innovative ideas were presented with models. There was a stiff competition and finally about 267 schools were selected in the first phase," she said.

In May 2017, the NITI Aayog released Rs.12 lakh to establish ATL and the process of its setting up began with furniture, fittings, equipment, tools and other gadgets as per the guidelines provided by Atal Innovation Mission (AIM). Once the lab becomes fully functional, students will be trained to use the facilities in the lab to develop skills and competencies which will enable them to become young innovators, she said.

Dr. CPK to release book on Kodavas in city tomorrow

Dr. CPK

A.C. Cariappa

Mysuru, Sept.10 - Noted writer Dr. C.P. Krishnakumar (CPK) will release the book "Kodaginodeyaru Kodavaru," written in Kannada by Kodagu-based playwright, actor and director Addanda C. Cariappa, at a function to be held at Maneyangala in Kalamandira here on Sept. 11 at 11 am.

Noted advocate and environmental activist P.D. Medappa and Mysuru Kodava Samaja President M.K. Kuttappa will be the chief guests. Kannada scholar and writer Dr. Gubbigoodu Ramesh will speak on the book. Star of Mysore Editor-in-Chief K.B. Ganapathy will preside.

In his foreword to the book, Ganapathy, has said that the author has painstakingly put together the past of Kodavas and how they are insulted by some so-called modern historians and some vested interests.

The book traces the history of Kodagu when it was ruled by 'Palegars' (feudal lords) since 1500 AD and later ruled by Haleri kings from 1600 AD to 1834. The book lists the sacrifices made by the people of Kodagu, then mainly Kodavas only, in protecting their rulers. The central message that is conveyed through the book is about saving the Kodava race and its unique culture.

The book, published by Rangabhoomi Kodagu Prakashana, Ponnampet, deals with certain historical facts of Kodagu and Kodavas. "Kodaginodeyaru Kodavaru" is a bold answer to certain historians who have painted Kodavas in bad light and a revisit to the neglected history of Kodagu.
